Mountbatten As Joint Governor-General

WHITEHALL ON TWIN-DOMINION CHOICE

Auchinleck & Scott Senior Military Officers to Stay

LONDON, June 27, (I.P.A.)—Lord Mountbatten, it is learnt, is favourable to the idea of being the first Governor-General of Hindustan and Pakistan when each will take Dominion Status.

The Bill conferring Dominion Status on two Indias will be put through Parliament next month and transfer of power is expected to take place mid August.

While the period of Dominion Status lasts, there ought to be two Governors-General who will be recommended to the King by the governments of the two Dominions, but it is said, in Whitehall that Lord Mountbatten is likely to be preferred by the two Indian Dominions as joint Governor-General.

I.P.A. also understands that Field Marshal Auchinleck and some senior military officers are likely to remain at the head of the Indian Army.

INDIA BILL TO BE LAW BY JULY END

LONDON, June 27, (Reuter): The British Government, I understand authoritatively, has made the bill for the creation of the two dominions of India Number One priority in its packed legislative programme for July, writes Fraser Wighton, Reuter's political correspondent.

An extensive overhaul of the Government schedule is being carried out to ensure that nothing stands in the way of the enactment of the India Bill well on the right side of the expected power transfer date of August 15.

All the parliamentary processes in connection with the bill are provisionally planned to take place between July 7 and July 31. If the schedule is maintained, this means that the bill may be law by the end of July, but in any case the parliamentary authorities have set themselves the absolute deadline of August 7 as the date that will leave the minimum comfortable margin before the projected power transfer date of August 15.

PARTITION SCHEME ON ANVIL

Division Of Interim Govt. Main Issue Before Council

NEW DELHI, June 27 (API).—The Partition Council formally came into existence today when the Viceroy presided over its first meeting. The personnel of the Council remains the same as that of the Partition Committee of the Cabinet with the alteration that Mr. Jinnah is now on the Council in the place of Sardar Abdur Rab Nishtar.

With the verdict of the Punjab and Bengal in favour of division it is pointed out, it was considered necessary to replace the Committee of the Cabinet set up initially to work out the preliminaries of partition by the Partition Council.

Connected questions now are that of a division of the present Interim Government, the Bengal Ministry and the setting up of separate Ministries for the Eastern and Western Punjab. Decision on these issues are expected to be arrived at in the next few days.

Meanwhile, the various expert Committees to deal with partition are working at full speed.

Simultaneously with the partition work, the Muslim League is going ahead with the preliminaries of organisation of the Pakistan Government. It is understood that the Muslim League have asked the Government of India to accord first priority for Railway movements, allocation of cement and building materials, office equipment including typewriters and furniture, telephones, etc., for the Pakistan Secretariat to be set up in Karachi.

WHERE PAKISTAN CONSEMBLY MEETS

NEW DELHI, June 27 (APA).—An informed League source today discounted the possibility of holding the opening session of the Pakistan Constituent Assembly at Karachi, saying "It is 95 per cent certain that the first session of the Pakistan Constituent Assembly will be held in New Delhi."

The source declined to disclose the exact date on which the new constitution making body would meet but added "it will meet definitely before August 15."

NISHTAR ON PATHANISTAN MOVE

NEW DELHI, June 27 (API).—Stating that the object of the Pathanistan move was "to isolate the North-West Frontier from Pakistan and ultimately make it a province of Hindustan," Sardar Abdur Rab Nishtar, Communications Member, in a statement today said such a step would not only adversely affect the interests of Pakistan but would also seriously threaten the freedom of the Pathans of the independent tribal areas.

Ismay's Bungalow Burgled

NEW DELHI, June 27 (API).—The bungalow occupied by the Viceroy's Political Adviser, Lord Ismay, was burgled on Wednesday night.

A case under Section 457 (Burglary) has been registered with the police.

The stolen articles consisted of clothes and jewellery worth £500 belonging to Lord Ismay's two daughters.

WHEN INDIA CEASES TO BE A DOMINION

Gandhiji Foresees Closest Friendship With Britain

NEW DELHI, June 27, (A.P.I.):—Addressing the post-prayer meeting today Mahatma Gandhi said that he contemplated the closest friendship between England and India when India ceased to be a Dominion. He was therefore most anxious that during this pregnant period the Viceroy and his English advisers and the Englishmen in India did nothing that was not strictly right. Post correct dealings with India as a whole, he added, would leave no bitter memory behind.

"PAGREE" FROM REFUGEES

Before dealing with some questions addressed to him which Mahatma Gandhi considered were of great interest. He said he would like to bring to their notice a letter which complained of the "pagree" system in vogue in dealing with the refugees from the Punjab. If the information was true it was shocking. No landlord should be guilty of wanting to make money out of human distress. On the contrary he would expect from Delhi landlords and property owners a warm welcome to these stricken men. The writer also wanted the Interim Government to look into the matter. He had no doubt that the Government would use all power at its disposal to make the lot of the refugees as easy as possible.

SYLHET "S. O. S." TO MOULANA MADANI

SYLHET, June 27 (UPI).—Urgent telegrams were sent to Maulana Hossain Ahmed Madani, President of the Jamiat-ul-Ulema-e-Hind, to visit Sylhet immediately in connection with the referendum work. Local Jamiat workers visiting the interiors of the district in connection with the referendum are reported to have been obstructed by the supporters of a rival party. The workers of the Scheduled Caste Federation along with Muslim National Guard volunteers from Bengal are pouring in here today.

Yesterday Jamiat workers in a propaganda van were attacked by a mob resulting in injuries to several workers.

A similar report has been received from Habiganj.

The Home Minister, Mr. Basanta Das arrived here and conferred with the army officers who have come here to maintain peace during the referendum.

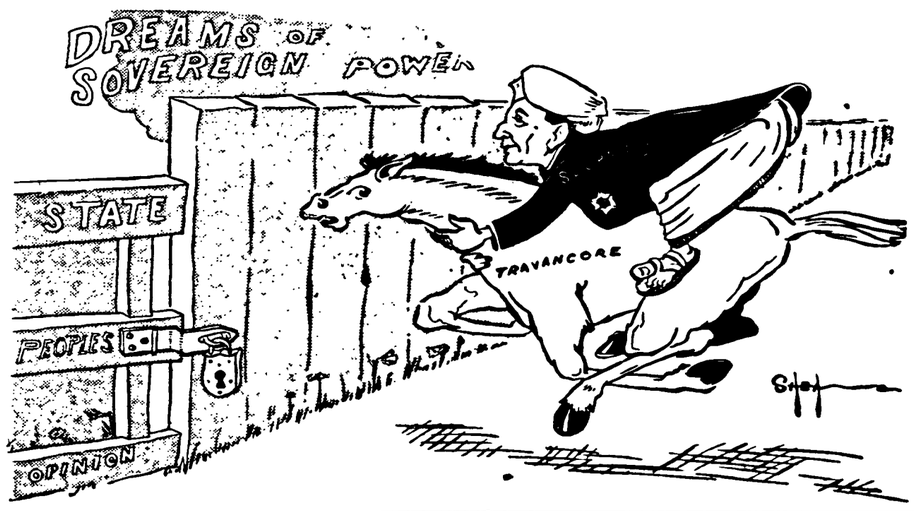
RIDING FOR A FALL!



Travancore Christians Refute Dewan's Claim

"Decision Not To Join Indian Union Definitely Against People's Interests"

The following is a refutation of the claim advanced by Sir C. P. Ramaswamy Iyer that Christians of all sections in Travancore support his declaration of an Independent Travancore.

The Mar Thomas Syrian Christians in Travancore consisting of the most educated community in the State have, by a resolution, unanimously passed at a meeting of the Committee's Representative Council held on the 18th of June at Tiruvalla under the presidentship of His Grace Dr. Abraham Mar Thoma (the Senior Metropolitan of the community) condemned in strong and unambiguous terms the decision taken by Sir C. P. to declare the Independence of Travancore as against the Indian Union.

The resolution says that Sir C.P.'s decision not to join the Indian Union is definitely detrimental to the interests of Travancore and its people and particularly so to the Christians of all denominations in the State.

The resolution further points out that the immediate need so far as Travancore is concerned is to bring into existence a form of Government in which the executive will be completely responsible to a Legislature elected on the widest possible franchise and that it is only a Government so constituted that is competent to make decisions binding the people.

The Council views with deep sorrow and anxiety the evil influences that are taking root and are steadily growing in the country and requests the Government to retrace their steps and adopt a just and reasonable course in the matter.

DEWAN'S REACTION TO PEOPLE'S DEMAND

TRIVANDRUM, June 26. (A.P.I.): Replying to the press statement issued by Mr. Thanu Pillai at Ernakulam yesterday, Sir C. P. Ramaswami Aiyar, Dewan of Travancore says: "With reference to Mr. Thanu Pillai's statement regarding referendum, I may point out that the Travancore Government have passed formal orders lifting the ban on all meetings and gatherings. Processions and jathas alone need permission by the District Magistrates and this step has been taken solely in the interests of public peace and in view of past experience. Identical provisions as to processions now exist practically all over India. With regard to lack of free press in Travancore there are about 150 dailies, weeklies and monthlies and the question is one for editors to answer. Mr. Thanu Pillai objects to the expression of views by officials on the question of independence. If six million people are going to be influenced by the expression of views of about one thousand officials, greater influence can be better exercised by 8,000 state Congress members claimed by Mr. Thanu Pillai. This Government are only anxious that clandestine influence should not be alleged. Travancoreans, whether officials or non-officials, have every right to express their opinions on this fundamental matter of independence.

Bombay To Rescue Of Travancore People

It is understood that a strong and influential Committee drawn from all sections of the Citizens of Bombay is being formed for the purpose of assisting in every way possible the impending struggle in Travancore necessitated by the declaration of Sir C. P. Ramaswamy Iyer that Travancore will be an Independent Sovereign State.

VICEROY TO VISIT HYDERABAD

HYDERABAD (Dn.), June 27 (A.P.I.): The Viceroy and Lady Mountbatten are expected to visit Hyderabad during July.

"Independence Day" was observed today under the auspices of 'Majlist-it-Itehadul-Muslamin.'

AMBASSADORS FOR BOTH GOVERNMENTS

The Hyderabad Government, it is understood will negotiate with both the Indian Union Government and the Pakistan Government for "stand still" arrangements for atleast two years in regard to fiscal and economic relations. Negotiations are already proceeding for such reciprocal arrangements tentatively with the present Interim Government, it is learnt, and were initiated by the Nawab of Chhatari, Prime Minister of Hyderabad, during his recent visit to Delhi.

It is learnt that Hyderabad, on attaining an independent sovereign status, will send its ambassadors to both governments of the Indian Union and Pakistan. Meanwhile, he possibility of a provisional Interim Government being formed for Hyderabad is being discussed in local political circles. This Government, it is pointed out, will be entrusted with the task of ushering in the administration of independent sovereign Hyderabad.

U. S. Does Not Want Soviet Participation!

MOSCOW, June 27. (A.P.A.): The impression was growing among Russians to-day that "certain circles" in the United States really do not want Soviet participation in the Marshall proposal for economic aid to Europe.

This was strongly reflected in a Tass commentary from Paris to-day on the comments of the United States Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder, on the Marshall proposal.

The Tass dispatch appeared in all papers and was broadcast on the Soviet Home Radio.

Drive For Increased Production

NEW DELHI, June 27. (API): Consultations are being held in New Delhi between the Government of India in the Industries and Supplies Department and the Industries Committee of the Textile Control Board on the shortage of textile production in India, says a press note. The discussions are based on the result of the investigations already completed by a special committee appointed by the Department to study the problem of shortage.

The Government of India will review the issue of controls in the light of the discussions which are still proceeding, the main object being increase of production. The meetings now being held are not open to the press. All reports concerning the alleged decisions made by the Government of India are to be treated as being merely speculative in character.

MEHTA & MISRA IN GREAT FORM

Pancho Segura And Partner Beaten In Straight Sets

WIMBLEDON, June 27. (Reuter): After a tropical storm unprecedented in the long history of Wimbledon which turned this world-famous lawn tennis arena into something like a swimming pool, bed-raggled spectators watched under a grilling sun a great duel between Californian Tom Brown and Australian Colin Long for the right to enter the last fight, an honour which fell to Brown after a 55-game encounter, Brown eventually won by 3/6, 13/11, 3/6, 6/1, 6/0.

Petra, today in the third and last men's singles encounter, ran quickly through the first two sets against his young New Zealand opponent Jack Robson, but the New Zealander rallied strongly in the third set before going down 6/2, 6/3, 4/6, 6/3.

A short time before the trio gathered at the Quai d'Orsay, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin arrived by plane from London with the American views on the reconstruction programme that may strongly influence Russia's decision to join or reject the Marshall plan.

The Foreign Ministers Conference decided to keep the entire proceedings secret. They agreed immediately after the session opened that no news of what happened should be divulged to the press.

The press conference scheduled at 7 p.m. was cancelled and correspondents were informed there was no news to be disclosed on today's happenings.

The Governor of Bombay who was to leave for Poona has postponed his departure in order to keep himself in touch with the railway strike situation.

Nearly 17,000 workers from the two railways went on strike today. CENTRES OF TROUBLE

FUTURE OF INDIAN INSURANCE COMPANIES

Mr. J. C. Setalvad Stresses Need For Vigilance During Present Critical Transitional Period

"I have great faith in the future of this country and I believe that with the passage of time, when the dust and din of the recent controversy have subsided and economic consequences of a division have helped to put political gains in their proper perspective, the dissident elements would once again come to think of United India" said Mr. J C Setalvad, presiding over the 19th annual general meeting of the Indian Insurance Companies' Association, Bombay, on Friday. Continuing he said:

"But the intervening period, more particularly the transitional period, with its Boundary Commissions, referendum and myriad other unforeseen problems that might crop up for solution", he added, "bids fair to be the most critical one that India might have to face in the next few months and it would be difficult to visualise the complete picture as it would emerge at the end of transition. In the meantime, unsettled conditions in the sphere of business and industry seem to be inevitable much as we may deplore them.

Insurance business is also bound to have its share of this general depression, for it cannot expect to forge far ahead when there is a temporary lull in the economic activity. But, as you know, transition from the state of dependents to that of freedom from foreign domination cannot be an altogether smooth affair with an idyllic setting of undisturbed peace and stable conditions. There is, therefore, no cause for undue alarm for Indian insurance at this temporary setback in business. But we shall have to be very vigilant to safeguard our interests, for only with complete unity, mutual goodwill and greater co-operation among ourselves we shall be able to steer clear of the difficulties in our path in the critical times ahead.

The new taxes—the business profits tax and the capital gains tax—are bound to act as a deterrent to industrial development and will destroy incentive for private enterprise and discourage investment of capital in industries. While we might be thankful for small mercies, even the revised proposals, though they might mitigate hardship to some little extent, leave much to be desired. Business of the type of general insurance, banking and public utilities should at least have been exempted altogether from this new impost. I fail to understand the rationale of making differentiation in this respect between companies transacting life insurance business and those doing fire, marine, motor car and accident insurance business."

In that connection, Mr. Setalvad argued that Indian general insurers were still in the stage of development and had yet to build up the reserves. The Committee's repeated representations to allow general insurers to transfer, free of tax, at least five per cent. of the premium income to additional reserves till they equalled the premium income had failed to evoke sympathetic consideration; but a better deal from the popular government might be expected. Any fresh imposts would incapacitate Indian companies from competing successfully in their own country with foreign companies enjoying over 60 per cent. of the available general insurance business.

Interest Problem

Turning to the interest problem, Mr. Setalvad said: "Low interest rates has come to stay, heavy taxation continues, and as if these handicaps were not baffling enough, the Insurance (Second) Amending Bill, emerged from the Select Committee, proposes furtner curtailments of the companies' powers to invest their life funds. Such a vexatious control extending beyond the minimum required to safeguard the interests of policyholders is more reprehensible at the present day when the huge life funds, blocked up in Government and approved securities, can be more fruitfully harnessed in various schemes to relieve the housing problem and promote industrial development.

"What is needed is a complete overhall of Section 27, retaining only the minimum restrictions on the mode of investment. If this is not done, insurance companies may be reluctantly compelled to revise the existing rate structure which, in turn, would render their position 'vis-a-vis' non-Indian companies very difficult as the latter may not find it necessary to put up the premium rates and will be particularly unfortunate in India where insurance has remained so far more or less a luxury far beyond the reach of the teeming millions of the country.

Riot Cover

"Until recently, insurance companies used to offer cover against risk of loss resulting from riot and civil commotion at normal rates, but the nature of the riot risk would appear to have changed considerably during the last few months. The experience about loss resulting from these disorders has shown that private insurance agencies, with their limited resources, cannot cope with the magnitude of the problem involved. The rate of premium for new insurance has been substantially increased and even at this revised apprehensive period rate, insurance companies have to curtail facilities in view of the reluctance on the part of foreign re-insurers to accept such risks.

"In the circumstances, a scheme of compulsory insurance against riot and civil commotion on an all-India basis, under which the losses will be underwritten by the State, has long become a desideratum. The Secretary of the Commerce Department had announced in the Council of State that Government had such a scheme under their consideration. However, I understand, Government have now abandoned the idea in view of the impending political changes. It would be a tragic lack of foresight on the part of Government not to be prepared for the contingency. I urge upon Government to reconsider their decision and introduce the scheme for compulsory insurance without further delay in order to ensure orderly development of the country's economy and to create a feeling of reassurance in the general public.

Insurance Law

"The Government of India had introduced two Insurance Amending Bills in the Central Legislative Assembly during its budget session in 1946. The first Bill, which was passed, incorporated certain clauses necessary to remove certain defects in the administration of the Insurance Act, 1938, the second Bill is designed to bring about better order in insurance business by lowering the cost of acquisition and thus place the business of insurance on a rational basis. The various clauses of the Bill are framed on the recommendations of the Insurance Inquiry Committee.

"It is very unfortunate that in view of the heavy legislative programme, the Bill could not be proceeded with. As a result, the proposal for limitation of over-all cost under the new Section 40-B of the Bill advocated by this Association has long been delayed. Since this is the only solution to put the Indian general insurance business on a sound footing, I trust that Government will take the earliest opportunity to put the present Bill on the Statute in order that the provisions may be put into operation as soon as possible," concluded Mr. Setalvad. "The critical commotion and communal riots from January 1, 1948, since insurers have already had sufficient notice of their orgy of violence and wanton destruction of property in different parts of the country have given the proposed amendments."

Tariff Problem

Referring to the tariff problem in the area under the Control of Calcutta Tariff Association Mr. Setalvad said: "It would be perhaps difficult to find a parallel anywhere else for the peculiar position Indian insurance companies occupy in their own home market. Non-Indian insurance companies must know that this will prove to be but a passing phase and we may look forward to a new era of peace, prosperity and plenty in which, with the economic resurgence of the country and increased support from Government, Indian insurance companies will make rapid strides and be able to consolidate their own position I have always regarded agency rules as merely its proper role as a bandmaiden of industry.

"Indian insurance companies have grown from strength to strength in the time has come for adoption and the measures that would pave the way for recent years and have today reached the gradual elimination of the agency stage when they can take care of system with a view to replacing all the insurance business available in by the eminently more suitable organ of the country. But I am sorry to mention that in spite of this, some of head offices, branches and registered brokers. But if it is to continue industrialists still continue to tinue for sometime yet, Indian companies big blocks of business with companies should be allowed double number of agents allowed to non-Indian companies in preference to the indigenous enterprise. dian companies, for Indian companies are mainly dependent on the bright future awaits the business of home market and should be given Indian insurance in the years follow- same facilities for development ing the transitional period, when there their own country as are allowed will be increasing opportunities for foreign companies in their country the insurance companies in India, with

"I believe that the proposal allowing one principal agency per company in the Calcutta mofussil would, besides introducing a dual class of agency where they do not exist at present, bring us to the most important problem facing us today, namely, present tariff situation which has absolutely deteriorated. The cause of disease is a great scramble for business with the result that many companies are encroaching upon the business of other companies and an unhealthy competition is going on between them for procuring business. From the administrative side of our business, therefore, there is an outstanding cause for unnecessary loss to companies. Is it not possible to devise a consistent and efficient policy for handling the present high cost of production that will stop the unwarranted disbursement of our money? I may emphasise that we must not let our own selfish interests stand in the way of that which is best for all.

Future

"We are passing through critical times," concluded Mr. Setalvad. "The future is pregnant with possibilities. Let us not increase unnecessarily the cost of mofussil business. Moreover, it would not be advisable to disturb the existing framework of the agency system until the Insurance Amending Act is passed into law. I need hardly point out that at a time when the maintenance of Indo-British relations on a proper basis is of paramount importance, any proposals savouring of racial discrimination are bound to have an undesirable effect on the Indian mind. The time is not far distant when the tariff policy will be planned to subserve Indian requirements."

Projects Before Insurance Business

BOMBAY, Friday.

Filing over the annual general meeting of the Indian Insurance Companies' Association held in the hall the Indian Merchants' Chamber, J. C Setalvad envisaged a temporary depression in the insurance business due to unsettled public conditions. He was, however, confident that with complete unity, mutual goodwill and greater co-operation among themselves they would be able to steer clear of the difficulties in their path in the difficult times ahead.

The meeting elected the following committee for the current year:—J. C. Setalvad (Chairman), A. K. Shah (Vice-Chairman), Messrs. R. M. Desai, M. G. Mody and P. Patel, B. K. Setalvad, M. D. Shah, R. G. Vijaykar and Vijayasinh Gohil.

How'e We Going To Fare In Australia?

Prince Duleepsinhji leading Australia in a few months to act as Reuter's special correspondent on the Indian cricket team's tour.

In the article below, first of a series in which he will analyse the prospects of the Indian team, Prince Duleepsinhji gives his frank comments on the men who have been selected to represent India for this important tour.

OUR MEN

BY PRINCE DULEEPSINHJI

V. M. MERCHANT

Right-hand batsman, opening bat, who was the backbone of the Indian team in England during the 1946 tour. He had a batting average of over 70 runs per innings, one of the wettest summers has had for many years. scored two centuries against and in England. The most consistent scorer in the Indian cricket during the last ten years. He has equalled several batting records and has broken several batting records an cricket. Never throws away his wicket. leaves it to his opponents to get him out. A sound player with tremendous power of concentration and patience. Has strokes all round the wicket and his late cut is one of the best strokes in the game to-day. Under a safe field. A little overcautious as a captain.

L. AMARNATH

A right-hand batsman and bowler. On his day the most brilliant batsman in India. His century against Douglas Jardine's team described by Jack Hobbs as the best innings he had seen since Macartney in a Test Match in 1926. Lately has not kept up his promise as a batsman. The inconsistency may be due to too much bowling and stiffness of his movements when batting.

Right-hand medium pace bowler. He has a short hopping run to the wicket and looks as if he bowls from the wrong foot. Most of the bowls in-swingers to a close-in on the leg side and varies this with an away-swinger now and then. He can swing the ball in Australia he may make a great deal of difference to India's not too strong attack.

Fields close to the wicket at a pinch can also keep wicket.

MUSTAQ ALI

A right-hand batsman. Has a unorthodox bat. Shuffles his feet as he is about to receive the ball. This may upset some bowlers for a time but the risk is too great for this class of cricket. Besides he has too many other risks, which are suicidal in first-class cricket. If he can curb his habit of shuffling his feet and suicidal strokes he will get to the fast Australian wickets. The selectors have once again placed their trust in him in spite of his poor showing both in England in 1946 and during the last Indian season it is up to him as a senior member of the team to overcome his nervousness and fulfil the trust which the selectors have placed in him. He scored a century against England in England in 1936. A brilliant stroke player. He makes up his mind what stroke to play even before the ball has delivered the ball. He must remember every ball must be played on its merits and it is fatal to make up one's mind before the ball is delivered.

Fields close to the wicket get but like so many in this country has no [illegible] in the field.

VINOO (BANSA)

An opening bat who like so many other opening batsmen began to go in later as the general policy in India was for the best batsmen in them to go in No. 4 or No. 5. This a wrong policy as the inferior batsmen who may have done better going in are sent in (to open the innings) to save the best batsman of the side. Manjrad is an opening bat and as he is asked to bowl a great deal he must open the innings.

A little cramped at times in playing a defensive stroke and a tendency to nibble at off balls. He has most of the strokes and is a fighter.

A slow left-hand bowler. The ball slightly comes in with his arm. His arm is a little low at the time of delivering the ball. On the English wickets was easily the best bowler in the Indian Team in 1946.

Fields in the Slips. He like Merchant is always ready to learn. Learnt the game on a matting wicket and after his first few games on turf when asked said "it is easier to bat on a good turf wicket." Yes, he understands the game.

V. S. HAZARE

A right-hand batsman and a medium-pace bowler.

He has the straightest bat in India. A little slow in spite of having all the strokes. Capable of making big scores if he finds his form in Australia. He has made several big scores in India He did not make in

PRINCE DULEEPSINHJEE

England as many runs as we expected but wet wickets and no fixed position in the batting order may have been largely responsible for that.

A medium pace bowler who bowls away swingers most of the time. Now and then bowls a ball which hastens off the pitch. On the Australian wickets his type of bowler is more likely to play-in a new batsman.

Fields in the slips.

C. S. NAYUDU

A right-hand googly bowler.

A round-arm delivery and a low trajectory not unlike Grimmett's. Two or three years ago he was the best bowler of this type in India but lately has lost his form. What had made him a good bowler was his consistent good length and nip off the pitch, both of which he seems to have lost. For two or three years he has been overbowled and here's hoping that a good rest since last March will help him regain his old form and if he does he will be a great asset to India.

A brilliant field close to the wicket, which may have influenced his selection as India's fielding especially catching, close to the wicket, is poor.

to play the batsmen in without flight, spin or swerve.

GUL MAHOMED

A lefthand batsman. He is one of the nine mentioned upto now who toured England in 1946. A tendency to bat with a cross-bat. A stout hearted cricketer who going in No. 6 or 7 may make useful scores.

A brilliant out-field. In England he fielded brilliantly during the 1946 tour.

AMIR ELAHI

A right-hand googly bowler. The best bowler of his type in india today. He has spin, right length and can bowl long spells without tiring. He toured England in 1936 but was given so few opportunities to play that he might just as well have been left behind in India. He is the oldest player in the team and is a bit slow in the field. Merchant will have to both nurse and hide him in the field to give away the least number of runs.

K. M. RANGNEKAR

A left-hand batsman. A little unlucky not to be included in the 1946 tour to England. Best left-hand batsman in India. He has a habit of taking unnecessary risks such as hooking a well pitched-up straight ball and hitting against break. If he can curb these habits he will make many runs in Australia. He has strokes all round the wicket and scores at a good pace.

A good cover-point.

G. KISHENCHAND

A right-hand batsman. Five years ago gave promise of becoming one of the best players in our country. Unfortunately he has not lived up to this promise. He has all the strokes in the game but has become a defensive player owing to one or two poor seasons. He is quick on his feet and I hope he does make use of his many strokes and not concentrate too much on defence in Australia Tendency to edge away against fast bowling but with a little determination he should overcome this weakness.

Fields in the deep.

H. R. ADHIKARI

A right-hand batsman. He has learnt his game on the matting. Tendency to clip his forward strokes, which is the result of right hand being used too much. Has made good scores on matting wickets but has little experience of turf wickets. If he gets used to the Australian wickets has strokes to make plenty of runs.

A good cover-point.

J. K. IRANI

A wicket-keeper. Like most of the wicket-keepers in this country has the habit of taking the ball by throwing out his arms without moving his feet to get behind the line of the ball. He will have to learn to move to take the ball correctly. This is the most important position in the field and in the short time which remains before the start of the tour he must learn to move correctly to take the ball and give up the habit of going down on one knee to receive a wide ball on the off side.

He, like a few others, is a product of matting wickets and have little experience of turf wickets.

P. SEN

A wicket-keeper. Today he is more of a stopper than a wicket-keeper but with experience may become first-class as he moves well and gets well behind the ball.

In Ranji Trophy matches has made useful scores but in Australia he will be up against higher standards of bowling.

D. G. PHADKAR

A right-hand medium-fast bowler and a batsman. On him will fall the burden of pace bowling as he is the only bowler in the team above medium pace. Bowls in-swingers most of the time but varies this with an away-swinger now and then. This is his strength and weakness as he has to divide his field to take full advantage of both his in and out-swings.

This leaves too many gaps in the field and the Australians will take full advantage of them. He bowls at a slower pace once the shine is off. He must bowl at his top speed all the time to give the Indian team a variety in its attack. If he can swing the ball in Australia he will make a great deal of difference to Indian bowling strength.

As a batsman time may prove he is better than as a bowler. He can play both a steady and a fast game. He has a fine forcing back stroke which he plays late.

Fields in the slips.

FAZAL MAHMOOD

A right-hand medium pace bowler. He would have done well in England as he moves the ball a little each way both in the air and off the pitch. In Australia if he can move the ball he will greatly strengthen the Indian bowling; otherwise. his pace is not suitable to the Australian conditions. His run up to the wicket with his legs jerked up like a trotting horse will amuse the Australian crowds and they are sure to give him a suitable nick-name.

A useful bat to go in No. 8 or 9.

Somersets' Deserving Victory In Summersgill Cup

BY J. C. MAITRA.

The Somerset Light Infantry sprang a big surprise on the Cooperage-goers on Friday evening when they defeated the Royal Air Force by 3 goals to one in the Western India Services Tournament. Those who had seen the Infantrymen in action in the Senior Division of the Harwood League earlier in the season could never have foretold that they had any chance of reaching the final stages of the competition, even though none of the competing teams had entered with a special glamour about it. "The Sets" as they are called, had fared very badly in the League, being trounced by their opponents off and on. But they made remarkable improvement as the season progressed with the result noted above.

EXCELLENT TEAM-WORK

There is not the least doubt that the "Sets" were the best team in the tournament. The margin of 3 goals to one in their favour against the R.A.F. may be somewhat flattering to them, as the Airmen threw away a few perfect sitters. But it must be freely conceded that their success was well-merited. Their team work was excellent and their forwards are certainly better opportunists and sure scorers than the Airmen. The latter had actually started off with a lead. But the innate superiority of the Infantrymen told in the end. We may be sure now that "the Sets" would make their presence felt in a greater degree in the second half of the League.

BEHAVIOUR OF SUPPORTERS

It may be noted that the above competition is open to Services teams only. So on the final day we saw the largest crowd of soldiers at the Cooperage this season. And their enthusiasm knew no bounds. They gave their respective sides all the vocal—and musical—support they needed. I wish our Indian fans follow their example in this respect rather than shower invectives and stones on the supervising officials for the faults of their favourite teams and players. The match was played in a true Cuptie spirit, though the standard of soccer was far from high.

ENCOURAGE INDIAN SERVICES

President Brandon of the W.I.F.A. said in his concluding remarks that this was the last season when the British soldiers would be playing in this competition—or any competition in India for the matter of that. This remark was lustily cheered by the way, by the soldiers present. That does not mean that the tournament will not be staged in future. There will be Servicemen in future too.

I think special efforts should be made to promote this manly game among the Indian fighting services As it is the Gurkhas take a keen interest in it and play well too. If they are encouraged to participate in such close—as well as open tournaments, they and other Indian Services teams would take the place of the British soldiers in our future sports.

SOLDIERS' CONTRIBUTION

India owes a deep debt of gratitude to the British soldiers for introducing and popularising this game in our country. Their contribution to India in this regard is certainly great. It is mainly due to their magnificent displays in the past that the Indian standard of play rose higher and higher. During the last war, they showed us some of the best footballers in Britain in action. We are sure to miss them badly in the future. But here is a question of national self-respect. No independent country in the world can tolerate the presence of foreign soldiers in its midst. So we must bid them good bye.

SOUTH CHINA FOOTBALL XI TO TOUR ENGLAND

HONGKONG, (UPA): The Sing Tao Football Team, South China Champions, will arrive in the United Kingdom by August 15 for a scheduled six and possibly more games.

They will play, among others, an Athenian League team; Oxford City; an Isthmian League team, and Ilford Club. Additional games are scheduled enroute in Manila, Singapore, and on the Continent.

Dockyards Prevail In Opening Match

DOCKYARDS	4
GOAN SPORTS	2

In the first match in this year's Heinrich Shield Dockyards were very nearly beaten by the junior outfit from Parel before ultimately winning by 4 goals to two.

The winners were not quite as comfortable as the score might suggest. The better team-work and more effective short passing of the losers held the Dockyards side for such a long time that their first two goals were both equalisers. Had the losers taken advantage of some of the chances that came their way, they might well have been awaiting the winners of the Firestone-Trades encounter in the next round. A. Braganza opened the proceedings of the evening by netting a shot which Santiago made no attempt to stop. Herculano once again placed his side in the lead after Middlecoat had equalised half a minute before the interval from a flag-kick. The second equaliser came from Rodrigues who was playing in the center-forward position. Thereafter Middlecoat and Roy completed the tally.

THE TEAMS:

DOCKYARDS—Santiago; Mallo Nur and Dhankoti; Middlecoat, Sampeys and McMurray. Francis, Roy, Rodrigues Beasly and Tilak Singh.

GOAN SPORTS CLUB—J. Fernandes; J. D'Souza and V Francis; G. DeCosta, Krishna and Raphael; R. Albert, Cajetan, P. Ferrao A. Braganza and Herculano

India's Role In Establishing World Peace

Jawahar Appeals For Broad Vision: Function To Commemorate Signing Of U. N. Charter

NEW DELHI, June 27 (U.P.I.): A quiet and impressive function to commemorate the signing of the United Nations' Charter took place at the Constitution Club in New Delhi last evening.

Among those who participated in the function were Pandit Nehru, Lady Mountbatten, Miss Pamella Mountbatten, Sir Terence Shone British High Commissioner in India and prominent officials and non-officials of Delhi.

Inaugurating the function Pandit Nehru, in a brief speech in Hindustani, explained the significance of the United Nations Organisation. He said that the U.N.O. would be strong or weak according to the member nations made it.

Referring to the two years that had lapsed since the significance of the Charter, Pandit Nehru observed that many things had happened which were likely to cause concern Instead of mutual co-operation to establish world peace and progress, he continued, some nations were glaring at each other with bloodshot eyes and some were intimidating others.

Pandit Nehru added that a free India had a very important role to play in establishing world peace. India, he said, would never be a great nation if she got engrossed in her own problems, difficult as they were, and developed a narrow vision. Separation and isolation was the result of a narrow outlook, Pandit Nehru remarked.

In conclusion he hoped that India which was on the point of achieving her goal, would develop that world outlook which would make her respected all over the world.

BOMBAY, Friday.

The C.I.D. made a large haul of 4,000 yards of cloth, at Wadi Bunder on Thursday.

A watch was kept by the C.I.D. at Wadi Bunder. On Thursday at about 11 a.m. it was found that four bales which were supposed to contain carpets (handloom) sent by R. Kantilal & Co. to Howrah were lying in Shed No. 9. As it was suspected that the bales did not contain carpets but some other cloth, they were opened and were found to contain about 4,000 yards of cotton cloth and 66 Turkish bath towels worth about Rs. 10,000.

PASSAGES TO AUSTRALIA

BOMBAY, Friday.

The "Manoora", which is due to sail for Australia from Bombay about July 31st or early August, proceed to Adelaide, Melbourne, Sydney, and possibly Brisbane. The voyage will not terminate at Fremantle as previously announced.

This was explained today by the Australian High Commissioner (Lieut. Gen. Sir Iven Mackay), who said that avoidance of a rail journey from Fremantle to the Eastern States might make the voyage more attractive to Australians and United Kingdom settlers, for whom a number of berths could still be made available.

Sir Iven Mackay added that charges for the additional service which the Government had arranged for passengers' convenience will be reasonable.

Less Water For Bombay City

The Municipal Commissioner Bombay, writes:—

Early in this month, the public were informed that if the expected monsoon was delayed, the question of reducing the present supply of water to the City would have to be seriously considered.

The Monsoon does not appear to have gathered strength as yet. The weather conditions at present prevailing indicate that it may not come for a few days more. Time has, therefore, come to take immediate steps to curtail the water supply with immediate effect. So far, it has been possible to maintain an average supply of 110 to 115 million gallons per day, spread over a period of 9 hours. But hereafter it will be curtailed to about 100 to 105 million gallons per day spread over a period of 8 hours, the reduced hours of supply being from 2-45 a.m. (B.T.) to 7-45 a.m. (B T.) and from 4 to 7 p.m. (B.T.).

The citizens of Bombay are, therefore, requested to conserve the water by economic use and by preventing wastage of water wherever possible and thus co-operate with the Authorities to tide over the present critical conditions.

INJUNCTION GRANTED

Interesting Suit

(Before the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Coyajee).

1. Piroja Minoo Bharucha
2. Virbaiji Bejonji Dordi....Plaintiffs.

Minoo Naoroji Bharucha....Defendant.

On a notice of motion taken out by the plaintiffs, his Lordship granted a temporary injunction restraining the defendant from removing from the custody of the Court of the Chief Presidency Magistrate shares of the value of about Rs. 50,000 and from recovering Rs. 20,000 kept in fixed deposit with the Bombay Postal Co-operative Society Ltd., pending the disposal of the suit.

The defendant was the husband of the plaintiff 1, and plaintiff 2 was her mother. Plaintiff 1 alleged that after her marriage with the defendant, taking undue advantage of the complete confidence she reposed in him, the defendant withdrew moneys on blank cheques which he made her sign and on one of such blank cheques he withdrew a sum of Rs. 40,000 from which he purchased the shares in question. The defendant also prevailed upon her to invest Rs. 20,000 by way of fixed deposit with the Bombay Postal Co-operative Society. The plaintiffs alleged that these sums belonged to them and not to the defendant who was a sorting clerk in the General Post Office at Bombay.

The defendant on the other hand alleged that the cheque for Rs. 40,000 given by the plaintiffs was in repayment of the aggregate of three loans made by him to plaintiff 2 out of the amount of Rs. 40,000 which he had received as dowry on his marriage. This large dowry was alleged to have been paid to him in order to dissuade him from breaking off the match as he intended to do soon after his engagement.

After hearing Counsel his Lordship granted an injunction in terms stated above.

Gestapo Methods Used By Rumanian Govt.

Britain Protests Against Recent Arrests

LONDON, June 27. (Reuter): Britain compared the methods of the Rumanian Government to those of the Gestapo in her note of protest against recent arrests there, cables Reuter Diplomatic Correspondent.

An official account of the contents of the British note delivered in Bucharest on Wednesday indicated that Britain told Rumania that it is impossible both on humanitarian grounds and under the peace treaty to overlook the indiscriminate arrests by the Rumanian Government during recent months of those regarded as their political opponents.

These, the note states included old men and students, priests and professors, in many cases with no political affiliations, who were deprived of their freedom indefinitely on suspicion of subversive activity.

They were neither charged with any precise crime of offence nor in most cases, even interrogated, whilst some were released without ever knowing the reason for their arrest, the note continued

INDIAN YOUTH GETS TRAINING IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, By Mail (A.P.A.): An Indian youth, Hari Sadhan Dasgupta has achieved a status almost unprecedented in Hollywood. He has become the protege of Irving Pichel noted film director

Pichel is training Dasgupta in film direction by permitting him to observe every stage of production on the picture "They Won't Believe Me" which Pichel is making for RKO Studios.

Dasgupta enrolled last year in the Cinema department of the University of Southern California. He met Pichel through friends of his father, the late Dr. Biraj Mohan Dasgupta, one-time director of the School of Tropical Medicine, Calcutta's renowned post-graduate medical institute. Doctor Dasgupta came to the United States in 1935 as a Rockfeller Foundation fellow at John Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore Maryland.

The younger Dasgupta began his on-the-set observation on the picture "Something In The Wind," starring Deanna Durbin, which Pichel directed for Universal-International Studios some weeks ago. He will go with Pichel when the latter directs the film "Miracle of the Bells" for producer Jesse Lasky.

At the end of the year Dasgupta plans to return to his home-land to enter the motion picture business in Calcutta. He says he will make use of organizational procedures and camera techniques learned here

IS SOCIALISM THE PANACEA?

Progressive Thinkers' Symposium

BOMBAY, Friday.

Whether Socialism was suitable for Hindustan and Pakistan or not was the subject of a symposium held this evening at the Sabu Siddiqui Hall under the auspices of the Progressive Thinker's Union. Mr. A A. Zari presided.

Mr. Kumar Mangalam a Communist in the course of his speech argued that if the forces of the socialism were strong in India the country would not have been vivisected. He added that in Pakistan the democratic forces would be weak. The landlord and other reactionary interests in the Muslim League would seek co-operation of the British and the American capitalists.

Giving a vague and evasive definition of Socialism Mr. Peerbhoy said that the captalist and the communist forms of government were not in the interest of the people. Retorting to Mr. Kumar Mangal's arguments he said that if communism was to spread in India it would come through Pakistan because it would be from Russia that the ideas of communism would trickle in the country. Unless the caste system was destroyed in Hindustan, it would become a breeding ground for foreign capitalists and other vested interests.

Prof. G. D. Parekh a Radical Democratic leader in his brief speech pointed out that unless the form and the shape of the governments in Hindustan and Pakistan were based on the harmonious relations between them there was no possibility of socialism in either of the countries. Socialism could be built on democracy and not on dictatorship.

Dr. Kazi who also spoke emphasised the spiritual and moral aspect of socialism.

WOMAN WHO IS 124 YEARS OLD

JOHANNESBURG (Reuter): Among the 300 aged Natives who are receiving monthly rations of 6 lb. of meal and 4 lb. of dried beans each through the Klerksdorp Location Relief Fund Committee is a bedridden Native woman Moremi, reputed to be 124 years old.

Moremi declares that she was born about the time when the Bechuanas waged war on the Mantati tribe who were terrorising the countryside in in 1823 under Chief Sikonyela. The Manati tribe was then ruled by the Queen Mother, Ma Ntatisi as regent for her son Sikenyela.

Moremi cannot remember many of the early events of her life too clearly, but if her memory of a later battle is correct, she was 16 years old, when, 108 years ago, the Transvaal was barren veldt and the Voortrekkers were still debating leaving the Cape for the North.

A THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Perhaps the gravest danger in Islam and the greatest obstacle to any progress within the community is the refusal to face facts and the tendency to go on living in an atmosphere of make-believe in which sober men can bring themselves to believe almost anything.

—J. W. SWEETMAN in "The International Review of Missions".

The Bombay Chronicle

THE VITAL "IF"

Two years ago on June 26, the United Nations Charter was signed at San Francisco. Humanity, which, as the Preamble of the Charter says, had suffered twice in one generation the scourge of war and had just emerged from the second that had wrought global death, destruction and devastation, was crying aloud for peace and human brotherhood and for a world free from the dangers of another war. It knew from its sufferings and from the incredible progress that science had made in developing instruments of destruction that it could not survive another scourge. The Charter enshrined "the hope of the world for lasting peace", to quote President Truman. It has been in force as a pledge of peace and democratic progress by the nations of the world. What is the record of achievement? Something has been done to honour the Charter. But more, much more, has yet to be done. And in the meantime a good deal has been and is being actually undone.

The messages of the "Leaders" of the United Nations broadcast on the second anniversary are a significant commentary on the last two years' record and the present position. They are a confession that the peace which the Charter seeks to establish if the world is not to perish, is as far from achievement as ever. They are more. They are a confession that the foundation of peace itself, that is, unity, is non-existent. In two years, lessons have been forgotten and minds and sentiments have lapsed into the same old conditions that produced the scourge.

Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru summed up the situation when he observed at the Delhi function to commemorate the Charter that many things had happened which were likely to cause concern and that, instead of mutual co-operation to establish world peace and progress, some nations were glaring at each other with bloodshot eyes and some were intimidating others. The tragedy is the failure of the "Leaders", the Powers at whose mercy the world is. They know what causes war and will inevitably destroy humanity namely, national conceit, ambition and greed and yet they cheerfully hug them to their bosom. The "Leaders'" messages are full of "ifs." But the only "if" that matters and that alone can save the world is conspicuously absent. World peace cannot be established by calling upon and addressing others but only 'if' each searches his own heart for the evils that are there as favoured inmates.

Books, More Books

Man does not live by bread alone, is a trite saying He needs books. Books are a condition of progress and it is not without significance that the Nazis burnt books. In fact, all tyrants have been against books because they have been against progress. 'Per contra' any administration, which is opposed to tyranny, which stands for the emancipation of the people from every form of bondage, and which works and fights for their all round progress must encourage books—their publication, collection and circulation. Therefore, it was in the fitness of things that the Congress Government should sponsor a library movement and do everything in its power to encourage such a movement, to give a fillip to it. Mr. B. G. Kher, Prime Minister, inaugurated on Monday, a central Library, which Mr. A. A. A. Fyzee described as "the beginnings of the scheme." Mr. Kher, in the course of his speech, rightly stressed the dual line of development which the library movement should take. On the one hand, there is the need to build up a central library with branches to cater to the needs of scholarship and research and, on the other, there is the need for an extensive network of small libraries for the use of the average citizens so that no village can be without its library of books. The fruition of such a grand but urgent scheme can only be the result of the co-operation of various individuals and bodies. Mr. Kher sounded as if he fought shy of accepting full Government responsibility—as well he may in view of Government's numerous commitments—and to shift it to the shoulders of local bodies and "Rockfellers and Carnegies" of India. We doubt very much, if in the new order of things which may prevail in India, there should be or will be much room for "Rockfellers and Carnegies." But the idea that the Government cannot, in the present circumstances, finance all these libraries is easily understandable. They will have to be maintained partly by the funds of local bodies and partly by direct public subscriptions. But the Government can in no case escape the responsibility to finance, stimulate and guide all such efforts and canalise them so as to fit them into a well-co-ordinated plan.

State Aid To Housing

The Reserve Bank of India Bulletin for May 1947 contains the first part of a very informative article on the subject of State aid in housing finance. In the light of current plans of the Bombay Government for giving effect to its housing programme the article is very topical. Governments elsewhere are making themselves responsible for much more ambitious programme of direct construction than what is planned by Bombay. 15,000 tenements in five years. Other Governments have relied more on directly assisting financial institutions, co-operative, mortgage and others, who undertake construction according to approved plans. A very necessary condition of success of such plans has been to secure for the private investor a reasonable rate of return, which under the Canadian Act is defined as "a rental of 12 per cent per annum of the cost of construction." A realistic policy which is intended for augmenting beneficent service and not only for penalising unsocial landlords ought to take account of the conditions of the building trade and of the financial agencies interested in it. Other features of the Bulletin include a comparative study of trends in provincial finance. In the context of reallocation of certain provincial areas this survey is also of immediate interest.

Frankly Speaking

Curfew Hardships

We have, during the past few days, published letters from citizens of various localities and different walks of life protesting and complaining against the long, frequent and various curfew orders. We have received many more in a similar vein. Ever since Bombay was plunged into a period of rioting and bloodshed on September 1 last year, curfew orders have become an unfortunate and far from desirable feature of the city's life. In enforcing these as well as many other serious restrictive measures the Government has rightly accepted the maintenance of peace and public order as the prime and overriding consideration. It is unfortunate that, despite the most vigorous measures taken by it, the cycle of insane stabbings and killings has not abated. For this the Government is in no way responsible and the reasons must be sought elsewhere. At the same time, it is hardly necessary to point out that the imposition of a curfew, particularly a day-time curfew, is a very serious matter, indeed. It is more serious than imprisonment, because when a person is under custody, Government accepts the responsibility of providing him with his minimum creature requirements. But under a curfew order, when a large number of unoffending, respectable, peace-loving citizens have their normal life paralysed and are prevented from going to work and otherwise put to hardships, Government does not—in the very nature of the case it possibly cannot—accept any such responsibility. Many infants cannot get milk and the ailing, in most cases, are not able to get proper or timely medical attention.

Plea For Revision

It is the unconscionable hardship that the people have to undergo on account of curfew that has resulted in the present Government earning the unjust and unenviable appellation of "Curfew Ministry." This is unjust because we know that neither the Government nor any officials under it like to impose these curfews. It is only out of ugly necessity that they are forced to do so. Even so the fact of the appellation, representing as it does, the feelings of a number of people, even if the feelings are unreasoning, must be taken note of and everything must be done to meet the criticism implied by it. In the circumstances we do feel, and we are confident that Government shares this feeling, that there is a good case to see if some steps cannot be taken to mitigate the rigours of the curfew and provide some relief from the hardships caused by it. Very often the residents of the area where a curfew is imposed may be completely innocent. The assailant more often than not is an outsider. As in regard to collective fines no inquiry is possible and no attempt is made to establish any relationship between the event and the residents of the locality. This is a matter which deserves to be looked into. Another matter which may also be considered is whether it would not be possible to allow milk vendors, if necessary under police guard, to deliver milk in the curfew areas. Other issues (raised by our correspondents) such as whether the use of a portion of a road or footpath, excluded from curfew but abutting on a curfew area, should be denied to the public and whether residents in a curfew area cannot stand near their doors or porches without being chased in, also deserve examination. There is no occasion to multiply details. But we do think the time has come when the policy underlying the imposition of curfew orders, and other problems incidental thereto should be carefully scrutinised by Government with a view to its revision in the light of public opinion and public need.

Government Must Help

Indian shipping is almost in its infancy. All these years, when India was under foreign domination, the dice were loaded heavily against its expansion. Reservation of coastal traffic for Indian bottoms has been one of the planks of the Indian nationalist programme for a long time. But, like many other demands of India, it has remained unachieved. It was not till last year that the British Government suggested that it and the Indian Government should promote discussions between the shipowners of the two countries with the object of affording assistance to Indian shipping interests. A conference has, therefore been convened in London on July 15 and the Government of India has nominated a strong and representative delegation led by Mr. Walchand Hirachand. The delegation is proceeding to England conscious of the many difficulties it has to face, but inspired by the vision of a vast and mighty Indian mercantile navy, which should be brought into existence in the not very distant future. Speaking at a farewell function arranged in its honour by the President of the Indian Merchants' Chamber on Wednesday, the leader of the delegation presented a clear picture of the handicaps under which the delegation laboured but did not wish to prophesy a break-down of the talks. At the same time he pointed out a new difficulty. Indian shipping companies propose building and acquiring half a million tons of shipping as an initial step towards their target of owning two million gross tons in the next five to seven years. India's capacity for building being strictly limited she has to depend largely on buying ships from other countries in order to fulfil this programme. But this is becoming difficult in view of the embargo put on the sales of ships by the British Ministry of Transport and of the "stiffening attitude" of the American Government in the disposal of U.S. surplus tonnage. We hope, however, that with the newly established diplomatic relations between the two countries the Government of India will be able to induce the United States to soften so far as to sell to India more freely some of her surplus vessels.

Sind's Distinction

As was quite rightly taken for granted long ago, the Sind Legislative Assembly has decided by a majority of 33 to 20 that the Province would join Pakistan. As one of the Sind Ministers, Pirzada Abdus Sattar, points out, the Province has the distinction of being the first to vote itself into the new State. It has another distinction, too, that of contributing Karachi as the capital of the seceding State. But Sind also enjoys quite a different kind of distinction. It is the first to have adopted officially measures which constitute a positive injustice to minorities. We do not ignore the verbal assurances that have been lately given to the minorities by some Ministers. But words mean little if actions do not vindicate them. And in the case of Sind there are official actions which positively deny the words so long as they are not revised. No State can exist for long if it is to be founded upon discriminatory injustice to minorities rather than special consideration to them.

FUTURE OF HOUSE OF LORDS

The chronicles of the House of Lords are one long record of concessions delayed until they have lost their grace, of rights denied until extorted from their fears, says Joseph Chamberlain.

(From Our Correspondent)

LONDON, (By Air Mail).

The defeat of the Government no less than seven times in the House of Lords has once again raised the question of the future of this House which is unique among the second chambers of the world. In the past, whenever the Lords came into conflict with the commons the cry was raised that the House should be abolished. The same cry is being raised today. But it is a mild cry. But, then, the Lords have not yet come into a open clash with the Commons. The clash will occur only if the Commons cut out Lords' amendments to Transport Nationalisation Bill and Lords again press them. In any case, the matter has received the serious attention of the members of the Government who are fully prepared to go into action against the Lords should a conflict be forced on them.

Before the war Prime Minister Attlee wrote a book into which he described the House of Lords a an achronism. It is more than anachronism; it is an outrage on denuccracy. Every Britisher knows this. But, as W. J. Brown in his "Guide To Parliament" has said, "the British instinct and method is to take what is, to put up with it as long as it works, tolerably well, and then, when its inadequacies become unendurable, to amend things as they are only so far as is necessary to meet the inadequacy or difficulty". The Lords made a nuisance of themselves between 1906 and 1910. The decisions of the then Liberal Parliament were flouted. Conservatives had been defeated at the election. But Conservative policies continued to hold away as the House of Lords vetoed measures passed by the Liberal House of Commons.

The matter came to a sharp head when the Peers had the cheek to reject the Budget adopted by the representatives of the people. Then and then alone steps were taken to clip the wings of the peers. Even then only such clipping was effected as was considered absolutely necessary Even though the preamble of the Parliament Act curtailing the powers of the Peers laid down the intention "to substitute for the House of Lords as it exists a second chamber constituted on a popular basis", in actuality it only deprived Lords of the power to amend or hold-up a Money Bill.

Abuse Of Power

The present position is that while the Lords have no power to veto a bill passed by the Commons they have power to hold it up for two years in which time it must be passed by the Commons in three successive sessions.

While this power is not exercised nobody cares a hoot about the Peers being armed with it It is only when the power is exercised that the resentment of the public is aroused If the House of Lords once again prove a thorn in the side of the Commons there is no doubt that the thorn will be removed. But that does not mean that there will be no House of Lords The House of Lords will be there. Mr. Attlee and his colleagues are of course, opposed to hereditary principle in the peerage. Yet nothing will be done to interfere with the existing order. What will be done is to further limit the powers of the House. At present a Money Bill can become a law in a month after rejection by the Lords. This procedure will be applied to non-Money Bills. A certain proportion of seats in the House of Lords may be filled by promotion from the House of Commons on a life basis. A certain number of seats may be allotted to interests representing culture and science. Thus the House may become more representative, but still "non-elective". But the Government are not anxious to force the pace. If the Lords see wisdom and avoid clash with the Commons they may continue to enjoy their present, powers.

IMPORT OF FOREIGN CLOTH

Is It In The Interests Of The Country?

BY G. A. BHONSLE

A Press Communique has been issued by the Government of India which gives information regarding the import of 7 crores of yards of cloth from Japan. We believe that it is within our remembrance that when Japanese piecegoods were dumped into our market, our textile industry passed through a period of depression, so much so that heavy import duties had to be imposed on Japanese cloth. Even then the import of cloth and yarn from that country could not be checked. Doubtless there is scarcity of cloth in the country at present and the same has been aggravated by the black-marketers. The remedy is that they should take out the hidden cloth and bring the same into the market immediately. Now several cases of hidden cloth are being traced and thousands of yards of cloth which was hidden so long is being dug out by the Special C.I.D. of Government of India.

Needs Of Handloom Industry

Seven crores yards of cloth is really speaking a drop in the ocean, but unfortunately the present import is bound to be followed by fresh consignments from Japan. If Government, instead of importing cloth, had imported yarn, our handloom weavers, who work nearly 25 lakhs of handlooms would have wove the same into cloth, working two hours extra daily. An average weaver weaves usually a minimum of hundred yards per month. If extra yarn is supplied to him, he will increase his production by nearly 25 yards per month, whereby the country would get over six crores of yards per month. We know that when there was depression in the country, some of our handloom weavers tied down into bundles their loom and other machines and became labourers and their wives, maid servants. We saw this position at least in Nagpur.

The handloom weaving industry is one of the most important industries of this country next to agriculture. Fortunately, on account of war the industry received great encouragement so much so that the weavers, who could not get even a living wage during the period of depression, are now quite happy. If Government arrange to supply extra yarn to the weavers, the latter should agree to weave cloth on reduced wages. Handloom cloth is very dear mostly because of the rise in the wages which a weaver gets in these days. He should reduce them by 50 per cent in the interest of the poor consumer and the merchants should agree to sell handloom cloth with the lowest possible margin. Government should take care to see that every hank of yarn is converted into cloth.

Sales Through Co-operative Societies

There are now thousands of weavers' co-operative societies working in the country. If yarn is supplied to weavers on the above condition and the societies purchase the whole cloth it will be possible to distribute it either through co-operative sales organisation or through ordinary trade channel. It should be the condition precedent that weavers do not charge wages over the maximum fixed by weavers' societies in consultation with the Textile Department and the margins of profits both of weavers' societies and those of the distributors, do also not exceed the limits fixed by the Provincial Textile Department.

SUICIDE WHILE TEMPORARILY INSANE

Coroner's Verdict At Inquest On George Matthai

CAMBRIDGE, June 27 (Reuter).—Professor George Matthai, 60 year old Indian Zoologist who was found dead with his throat cut in his Cambridge lodgings on Wednesday, committed suicide while temporarily insane, the Coroner recorded at the inquest here today.

"We have lost a brilliant man", the coroner declared.

The High Commissioner for India was present at the inquest. Lieutenant Colonel Robert Sewel, former Director of the Zoological Survey in India ,gave evidence.

Mr. Matthai, who was found on the floor with an open razor by his side, was very well known and in his own line one of the world's experts, Colonel Sewel said. He was expert on Corals and was shortly to do some work for the British.

The Coroner said that Mr. Matthai's future was secure, and that he had no financial worries. He might have been perturbed in looking for accommodation for his wife and son whom he hoped to bring over from Switzerland. That seemed to be, his only worry.

JAGJIWAN RAM'S WARNING AT GENEVA

GENEVA, June 27, (Reuter): Mr. Jagjiwan Ram, Minister of Labour in India's Interim Government and Indian Government delegate, told the International Labour Conference today that the Asian Countries were passing through an intensive popular awakening. None of them would be mere vassals of foreign powers, he said in what he called "A Warning".

Mr. Jagjivan Ram said there was a striking affinity of ideals between the I.L.O. and the Indian Congress Party.

He said the Indian Government was anxious that labour legislation should not outrun labour administration and that labour laws should not be empty shells for lack of enforcement. Steps were being taken to strengthen labour inspection services in the country.

Soekarno Accepts Dutch Proposals

Indonesian Crisis Ends: Shahriar To Resume

JOGJAKARTA, June 27 (Reuter): The Indonesian Republican President, Dr. I. R. Soekarno, has accepted the mainines of the Dutch proposals of May 27 for the formation of a federal interim Government for the whole of the former Netherlands East Indies, bles Graham Jekins, Reuter's special correspondent.

His acceptance, which was being sent today, ends a three-week-old crisis thought in some circles to have brought the Dutch and the Indonesians to the brink of further war.

SOEKARNO ASSUMES RESPONSIBILITY

Dr. Soekarno has assumed responsibility for Government while the Republican Cabinet is being reformed after Prime Minister Sutan Shahriar's overnight resignation because he could not secure left-wing support for his concessions to the Dutch during recent negotiations.

As these points are also conceded in Dr. Soekarno's reply, it is now expected that Dr. Shahriar will return to the Premiership.

LAST MINUTE CHANGE

The President made these concessions after the left wing group had reversed its decision following the return here of the Indonesian delegate to the world federation of trade unions' meeting at Prague, who was believed to have persuaded them to drop their opposition.

Points for which Dr. Shahriar was unable to win left wing support earlier were his concessions on the position of a representative of the Dutch Government in the interim government and the methods by which the interim government would be set up.

Dr. Skarni's reply was reported to have been already telegraphed to Batavia and a special emissary was taking other copy by special train tonight.

Following are the main points of Dr. Soarno's reply:—

Dr. Skarno says he is glad that agreemt has been reached on the questio of the Interim Government. The Inrim Government shall be set up as on as possible and there are no objtions to a Netherlands Kingdom rresentative having a seat in the Inrim Government.

The nterim Government's first task shall l to set up federal organs as mentied in the Dutch proposal for a join constabulary. The Republican Govrnent is prepared to co-operate in thefederal connection and also in guaraeeing internal safety. Such coperaon should be based on the respoibility for these problems of each art that will later join the federaon.

POSITION OF PRINCES IN NEW INDIA

British Conservative Writer's Analysis

LONDON, June 27, (Reuter): The position of the third party in Indian politics — the Princes — will be serious when the British Government moves out of India, in view of their having to come to their own terms with a hostile Congress.

This view was put forward by Sir William Barton, well-known writer on Indian affairs, in an article in the current issue of the British independent conservative periodical "The Spectator".

Sir William Barton, who is 73, joined the Indian Civil Service in 1893. He has written many works on India.

Sir William wrote: "From the point of view of the Princes the position created by the recent demarche of His Majesty's Government is serious. In the declaration of policy of May 26 last year they were told definitely that the military protectorate would be withdrawn; in other words, Britain repudiates her treaty obligations without the slightest hint that any return would be made in respect of the territories ceded to her for the maintenance of the necessary military forces.

Paramountcy would indeed disappear, and with it the rights and privileges based on military necessity and conceded by treaty on sufferance. These rights would revert to the States. Would they be of any real advantage?

Consider the position. The paramount power could not have fulfilled its military obligations if a number of States developed large armies and carried out a policy detrimental to India as a whole. It followed that the armed forces of the States must be strictly limited; the manufacture of munitions could not be allowed. The control of communications was another military necessity. Financial stability was also essential to military efficiency; the Central Government must to this end control customs, currency and trade generally.

Foreign relations were another responsibility of the Crown. The States have no international standing; their subjects abroad are British protected persons.

"Another corollary of paramountcy was the moral duty of the Crown to ensure that the administration of the States is of a decent standard; otherwise the Crown might have to intervene to put down unavoidable rebellion".

The writer continued "It is next to impossible that the States should be in a position to conclude agreements with the Congress in the next two months or so. They should be given time to work up their confederations, a process in which his Majesty's Government might give a helping hand. Too much insistence has been placed on the isolation of States from the seaboard. Kathiawar, Baroda Rajputana and the Sikh States, and most of the Gujarat States could be served by the Kathiawar ports and so would not be dependent economically on Hindustan.

This being so, if agreement with Congress were impossible, the group might, if the Congress decided on independence, join Pakistan. Geographically there would be no difficulty about such an agreement. Or they might claim dominion status. Could His Majesty's Government refuse it?

"With unity the States would be able to obtain reasonable terms especially now that partition has weakened the position of the Congress. The League will almost certainly stay in the Commonwealth an added inducement to Rajputana States and Kashmir to conclude agreement with it. The Congress may, in such conditions, decide to follow the League's move. By doing so it would inspire confidence in the States generally; it would give them what they desire, a guarantee against external aggression."

Sir William said that confederation of the States, particularly the smaller ones, would if successful, revolutionise the situation. The fact that His Majesty's Government has offered no assistance in the States in establishing their relations with the new India has left them to make their own terms as best they may be added.

MYSORE STATE CONGRESS CALL TO TRAVANCORE PEOPLE

BANGALORE, June 26, (API): A call to the people of Travancore and Hyderabad to assert their right and repudiate the action of the State authorities in declaring themselves independent was made by the Working Committee of the Mysore State Congress which after two days discussion today adopted a resolution conveying its sympathy to the people of the two states in the struggle which they may have to launch for the immediate establishment of responsible government and for entry into the Indian Union.

The resolution says that the Working Committee is decidedly of the opinion that the question of independence or otherwise of states is a matter for the people to decide and not for their rulers or dewans.

An Interim Ministry commanding the confidence of a popular legislature and a referendum thereafter, the resolution holds, will be a fair deal.

The resolution adds, the Indian Union cannot permit any state to remain in opposition so as to be used as a military or economic base to the prejudice of the safety or prosperity of India.

Nerve War Tells On Sir C. P.?

TRIVANDRUM, June 26, (A. P. I.): Sir C. P. Ramaswami Aiyer, Dewan of Travancore in a statement issued today says:—"A report has been received that Mr. T. M. Verghese ex-M. L. A., after his conversation with Mr Pattam Thannu Pillai, has been stating that after August 15 leaders of the Indian National Congress would help him to achieve responsible Government and have promised him military help. I do not believe this report.

"Evidently, this type of report is being circulated to infuse terror and nervousness in the minds of people. I am confident that this threat will only make Travancoreans stronger in their resolve to resist the subversive group which cannot but be regarded as pro-Communist in the events that have happened, and are happening, notwithstanding their open protestations of antagonism to Communist ideals"

China, he said, had fully observed the spirit and the letter of her treaty with the Soviet Union, and had every right to ask the Soviet Union to do the same.

SYDNEY TO REPLACE SINGAPORE

As Main British Naval Base In Pacific

(From Our Own Correspondent)
SINGAPORE, June 22.
(By Air Mail)

On June 9 the Associated Press carried a report from New York of the possible replacement of Singapore by Sydney as the "main British naval base in the Pacific", as revealed by an Australian Government spokesman as reported in the monthly publication "Australia" issued by the Australian News and Information Bureau in New York. And here is the story behind that news which occupied Australian newspaper headlines for several days. According to the "Straits Times" Melbourne correspondent, Bob Gilmore, the fall of Singapore gave the present generation of Australians the worst jolt they have ever known. Dunkirk meant the Germans might take London; but Singapore meant the Nips might take Melbourne and Sydney.

Three days after the "Sydney to Replace Singapore" stories, Defence Minister Dedman announced his £A250,000,000 five-year defence programme, of which the main points were: Navy, £A18,000,000 a year, Army, £A12,400,000; R. A. A. F. £A12,500,000; Rockets, £A6,750,000. Along with Australia's new defence programme with its emphasis on rockets, goes Attorney-General Dr. Evatt's anti-sabotage Bill—directed frankly against Communists. It provides a maximum penalty of £A5,000 and a year's jail for such offences as boycott of threatened boycott, of "an approved defence project".

Australia's readiness to earmark £A50 millions a year after a war is which the enemies are supposed to have been routed stems from two reason—fear of Russia and fear of aggression from bandit states" arising from the colonial break-up in Australia's near North. Australia's fear of Asiatic aggression takes into account the possibility of both military and diplomatic aggression.

MONTGOMERY GOES TO SINGAPORE.

Washington reports a few days ago stated that British and American air, land and sea commanders urged Australia to take a lead in organising a Pacific defence bloc to include New Zealand, Malaya, Indonesia and Hongkong. American military leaders at the Washington conference were reported to have attached considerable importance to the defence of Malaya. They said that the defence of Malaya could be simplified by transferring the training depot and the field headquarters of the Gurkha troops from India to Malaya with eight Gurkha battalion at present in India. Chief of Imperial General Staff Field-Marshall Viscount Montgomery is expected in Singapore Thursday June 26 to hold staff talks with Service leaders from the Far East and Australia. Methods of putting into force the British and American ideas of the Pacific defence bloc are expected to be discussed at the conference.

Partition Of Historical Archives

NEW DELHI, June 27. (API): One of the most difficult problems of partition is the division of archives of historical and cultural interest in the custody of the Government of India.

These documents, it is stated, are so interlinked no physical division is possible. Moreover, the Imperial Records Department, which is the custodian of all records, is the only institution in India where scholars from all over India can carry on research work on economic and historical development in the late British period. From this point of view, according to a high official, any clear-cut division of these records would be a loss to the intellectual world. "It is suggested that one way of solving the problem would be to take photostat copies of the records concerned.

A Departmental Sub-Committee consisting of Khan Bahadur Asadullah, Librarian, Imperial Library, and Dr. B. M. Sen, Deputy Secretary, Education Department, has been set up to facilitate work on the division of archives.

"PAGDANDI" INTRODUCES NEW NOTE

Dalsukh Pancholi's PAGANDI breaks away from the average run of films inasmuch as it does not concentrate on romance but rather the relationship between a king and his grandson.

Gyani portrays the old king who disapproves of his son's marriage to a commoner and is at first reluctant to accept the off-spring of the mesalliance as heir-apparent. It is left to the young boy to win over his grandparent with his winsome ways. Sudershan is hard put to it to prevent the part of the heir from becoming sloppy.

The romantic interest of the film is provided by Akhtar, as also the lyrical interludes.

ASTONISHING POPULARITY OF "ANMOL GHADI"

The box-office success of Mehboob Productions' ANMOL GHADI proves conclusively that commercial hits are made by pandering to the uncultured tastes of the undiscriminating masses.

The all too familiar story of a couple who are friends in childhood and grow up to be lovers, is narrated at inordinate length with scarcely any new trimmings. Lata and Chandra are separated as children. The girl grows up to become a writer whose printed romances strike a responsive chord in the boy who has become a struggling musician repairing musical instruments to make ends meet. Lata's friend Basanti, herself a lover of music, becomes enamoured of Chandra who has been writing fan-mail letters to novelist Lata, whose pen-name is 'Renu', without knowing that she is his childhood sweetheart. The meeting of the three results in the erstwhile triangle which has not even the merit of being tantalising as one realises, from the start, that Lata and not Basanti will win Chandra.

The direction of Mehboob is scarcely up to the standard of some of his old films, while the photography often leaves much to be desired! The songs and the music are not of a particularly high order, and the only reason one can find for the amazing popularity of this picture is in its adherence to an old formula dear to the hearts of the illiterate. The redeeming feature of the photoplay is one that perhaps passes right over the head of the average person—the well-phrased dialogue which, however, suffers from somewhat faulty recording.

Surendra, long past his prime, is called upon to enact the role of the 'youthful' Chandra and thus contributes to the film its tragic note! Nurjehan scarcely suggests having the intelligence to be a successful writer. The only suitable casting seems to be that of Suraiya as the chirpy Basanti.

There is no accounting for public taste; so I suppose this photoplay will continue its merry run despite the triteness of its plot and its unfinished standard.

"TULSI VRUNDA"—FOR THE ORTHODOX.

Mythology is the erstwhile resort of the producer in search of a story. Jayant Desai gives us a legendary chapter in his TULSI VRUNDA—a story more fit for children and orthodox believers of legends rather than rationalists.

Sati Tulsi, a devotee of Vishnu, is abducted and forcibly married to the demon Jalandhar who thus hopes to overcome Vishnu. Tulsi, like all good mythological heroines, remains faithful to her marriage vows but unyielding in her worship of Vishnu. Then follows the banishment which, as expected, she accepts with resignation As you have guessed, the reward of the woman's devotion is won in the climax.

Ishwarlal certainly looks a demon, but as I do not know how such beings behave, I am unable to vouch for the authenticity of his performances. As to Ranjana, gone is the elfin quality she first displayed; instead we have a fiddle-faced, long suffering martyr Vishnu as portrayed by Umakant is, indeed, an unglamorous god.

Devotional songs abound in the film for the pleasure of orthodoxy.

For simple minds and those that revel in the tinsel trappings of hoary mythology.

"SAMAJ KO BADAL DALO"—ONE MAN SHOW

Prakash's latest picture centres round a man whose character is a fusion of old and new ways. The complex nature of Jayant seeks an outlet in frivolity as well as in the more substantial things of life such as a home. But his efforts in the latter direction are ill-fated as the three women he marries, die.

It has fallen to the lot of the clever character actor Yakub to portray Jayant under the baton of Vijay Bhatt.

TAGORE STORY ON THE SCREEN

Nitin Bose brings to the screen one of Rabindranath Tagore's stories, under the banner of the Bombay Talkies.

Based on the age-old triangle theme, the original beauty of the story is in the author's clever delineation of the characters rather than in the story. It is, however, hardly fair to expect Ranjana, Dileep Kumar and Mira Misra to do proper justice to the difficult characterisation necessitated by their roles. Of the three, Ranjana is perhaps the most appealing with her wistful rendering of the part of the girl whose love for the man of her choice remains constant despite his liaison with another woman.

A Tagore story needs delicate handling and the producers certainly deserve one's sympathy for having set before themselves so difficult a task.

For lovers of intelligent drama.

City Water Supply Position Not Alarming

Corporators Urge "Blue Print" For Emergency Relief

BOMBAY, Friday.—A warning against "undue panic", with the assurance that for the next twenty days the city would get the present quantum of 100 million gallons of water per day "even without a drop of rainfall", was given by the Municipal Commissioner, Mr. B. K. Patel, when he addressed an emergent Corporation meeting this afternoon.

Only 24 members out of a total of 117, including eleven from the Congress Party which has a strength of about 60, attended today's meeting which was in response to the Mayor's call on Thursday to consider the serious water shortage in the city.

NO CAUSE FOR ANXIETY

Declaring that "we still have time to take action", the Municipal Commissioner pointed out that a really anxious stage would be reached if the lakes were not full by the end of September, when water is stored for the following nine months.

He explained that the level in the Tansa Lake, the main source of supply which yielded 90 to 100 million gallons per day, was now nearly the same as it was on an identical date last year. Eighty-two million gallons were being drawn today on a level of 390.05 feet and if the same supply was continued for the next twenty days, the level would fall to 387, necessitating the curtailing of the supply from Tansa to 50 or 60 million gallons per day.

The level at Vihar lake was four feet less than that of last year's but he was confident that the lake would yield 15 gallons per day for the next thirty days. The Tulsi lake, giving a supply of 3½ million gallons, had registered no change in level compared to last year's and a continued supply at the existing rate could be assured for the next three months.

EMERGENCY BLUE PRINT

Unless it became necessary to conserve the levels in the three lakes by cuts in supply, the city could still have a daily quota of 100 million gallons for the next twenty days even though no rains fell, Mr. B. K. Patel said and added: "The position is still not alarming but it may get bad."

That the Commissioner should have a "blue-print" for relief in an emergency and a statistical survey of the wells in Bombay taken forthwith was the view expressed by Mr. S. K. Patil, leader of the Congress Party, who pointed out that even if the rains began to fall immediately, it would take some days for the water levels to rise to the requisite minimum. In that case the supply might have to be cut further and he asked the Commissioner to make steps to meet the emergency.

A plea for the equitable distribution of the existing water supply, based on a scrupulous regard for the needs of the population, was made by Mr. Jamnadas Mehta. He asked that wasters of water should be penalised and a temporary law made to that end.

Mr. I. S. Patel demanded why the situation had not been foreseen by the authorities and adequate safeguards made while Mr. M. N. Talpade said he was against the curtailment of water supply to industries as they "fed the nation."

GLOOMIEST NOTE

Striking the gloomiest note, Mr. Nasshir C. Bharucha contended that the situation gone beyond the control of the Corporation. They could at best regulate supply and if the monsoon had not made its appearance at the end of twenty days, "the city will be in a position as if our water mains had been blasted, bombed out and wrecked." He said that Mr. Patil, on behalf of the House, should get in touch with Government and meanwhile strict measures should be taken as the stoppage of watering of public and private gardens and the suspension of night shifts in industrial factories in order to conserve the water supply. There was an urgent need for an effective water rationing scheme ....

The Mayor: Are you suggesting a Curfew order for water? (Laughter).

... Bharucha concluded by appealing to the Mayor and to the House to "stop cracking jokes" and appreciate the gravity of the situation.

DAILY WASTAGE

Mr. M. V. Dhonde attributed the shortage partly to defects in the distribution system, which he said was responsible for the daily loss of 20 million gallons. He called for the preparation of blue-prints which could be put into use in emergencies which might arise during the next five years, the time mentioned for the completion of the new water schemes.

Nothing would be left undone to relieve the present difficulties, assured the Municipal Commissioner replying to the suggestions of the members. He expressed the view that rationing of water was "impossible in a city of Bombay's size." The Municipality had purchased new machinery to detect and rectify mistakes in the mains, he stated.

Mr. N. V. Modak, Special Engineer, then explained some of the technicalities bearing on the present water levels in the lakes.

appeal to all persons, blessed with wealth, to contribute liberally towards this old school's new enterprise in its effort to serve the country.

The estimated cost for the partial conversion of the school into a technical high school is Rs. 1,56,000 (£10,000; dol. 50,000) and for the complete conversion, Rs. 3,00,000 (£20,000; dol. 1,00,000). Towards this amount a magnificent donation of Rs. 50,000 has already been promised by Sir Homi Mehta. The lead thus given by Sir Homi encourages me to hope that it would be quite possible to convert the school completely into a Technical High School, if the public of Bombay will contribute their share liberally.

I am hoping to make arrangements for the Foundation Stone of the new Technical High School to be laid sometimes in November or December this year, and, therefore, it is necessary for me to collect all the funds required before that date.

A Broach citizen points out the hardships suffered by citizens of that town and makes an urgent plea for laying more pipe lines.

This letter has no signature. Anyway I have made a three line summary for 'points'.

ROBERT MONEY SCHOOL

Appeal For Funds To Convert It Into A Technical School

Mr. C. A. Christie, Principal of the Robert Money School, which has been in existence in this city for over 110 years, has prepared a scheme for its reorganisation so as to convert it into a Technical High School. In the course of an appeal for funds with a view to carrying the scheme into effect he says:—

In the city of Bombay, while there are 150 secondary schools preparing students for the Bombay University Matriculation examination, there are only 2 technical high schools leading to the school leaving certificate examination instituted by the Government of Bombay. This clearly shows that the facilities for technical education, available at present, are utterly inadequate, although the Government of Bombay and high ranking officials have stressed, from time to time, the urgent need for immediately establishing more technical schools, RECOGNITION AND IMPORTANCE.

The Government of Bombay school leaving certificate examination, with its several alternative courses of studies, provides ample opportunities to students to select optional subjects, according to their aptitude. The position of importance in which the school leaving certificate examination has been placed can be gauged from the fact that the University of Bombay, by regulation, deems the student passing the examination from a technical high school, eligible for admission to its First Year Science Course. Also, students of technical high schools qualifying for the school leaving certificate with mechanical and electrical engineerings as optional subjects, are eligible for direct admission to the 2nd Year Government Diploma Course in mechanical and electrical Engineering at the College of Engineering, Poona. Similarly, the V. J. Technical Institute, Bombay, has recognised the importance of the school leaving certificate examination by deciding to admit, directly to its 2nd Year Course, students from a technical high school who pass the examination in Grade I, and to its 1st Year Course those who pass in Grade II or III without their being required to sit for the Institute's Entrance Examination, which matriculates and even graduates in Arts are required to do if they are seeking admission to the V.J.T.I.

The Robert Money School ranks among the pioneer educational institutions in Bombay, and, in fact, is one of the oldest in India, having been in existence for over 110 years. Realising now its responsibility, however, of keeping abreast of the times, and recognising it as its duty to the public to help towards rapid industrialisation of the country, it has decided to break away from the traditional academic type of education and play its part in supplying, to some extent at least, the city's and the country's urgent need for more technical personnel. Accordingly this school will be converted into a Technical High School, thus opening a new chapter of service in its long history. The school will commence its new career from June 1948.

Highly appreciative messages have been sent by some of the most prominent and eminent personalities of the city and the country giving their warm-hearted support to the scheme. All the messages stress the urgent need of the country for turning out skilled technicians at an increasingly rapid pace for the industrial reorganisation and regeneration of our country. They also make a strong

Mills Buying On New York Cotton Exchange

Distant Months Rise Three Dollars Per Bale

NEW YORK, June 26. (U.P.A.): Moderately active trading and firm prices featured to-day's session of the New York Cotton Exchange. Influenced by the steadiness in securities, lessening nervousness over the labour situation and persistent trade and mill buying against expanding activity in the textile markets, prices developed a firm tendency. There was considerable buying in October against cotton sold to the Army and reports were current that the Congressional Cotton Bloc leaders were insisting that 70 per cent of the raw cotton supplies to Japan be of American origin. The War Department, however, offered to provide Japan with 50 per cent of American cotton, 40 per cent Indian and 10 per cent from other countries.

SPOT DEMAND.

The tightness in the spot situation for high grades was accentuated by mill buying and some of the mills are scrambling to acquire early Texas ginnings. It is assumed that mills had trimmed their surplus inventories too low in the recent liquidating movement and were now pressed for supplies to meet larger textile orders.

The July situation presently has minor influence on the market as interest is turning to new crop developments. The inter-crop price gap is narrowing with the July and October spread down to 450 points against 500 last week. Opinions regarding future developments in July are mixed. Some quarters are expecting the spot month to re-assert its dominance over the market because of the prospective end of the season supply tightness and lateness in the new crop. Conversely, others are pointing out that July is holding a premium over the Houston price for 15/16 inch.

PRICE MOVEMENT.

To-day's session opened five to 15 higher. Thereafter prices developed a gradual uptrend achieving the highest level in the final minutes of trading. The session closed 25 to 63 higher. The first bale of cotton ginned in South Texas was sold to a Houseton spot firm for dol. 1.07 per pound. The bale is now being flown to New York consigned to Robert Moore and Company, for auction on the flow of the New York Cotton Exchange.

PARITY EXPECTATION.

The parity price report to-morrow is becoming more of a market influence and traders believe that the price will rise because of the skyrocketing in the prices of feed grains. If the parity rises to July 15th, technicians believe tht the next loan will be around 27.75 cents for middlings of 15/16 in Memphis. Other quarters, however, are calculating the new loan at as high as 28.25 cents. Mr. William C. Hope of Robert, More and Company, in a market letter pointed out that the national inflationary cycle is not likely to be broken within the next thirty days after which the loan rate will be set. Hope said that "food costs are the major item in the parity computation and these are still advancing. The wearing apparel, the second major factor, is also showing no signs of weakness."

Trade sources here say that agreement is nearing completion for the shipment of spinnable waste cotton to Germany. It is understood that favourable consideration is being given to the proposal after the meeting of Cotton waste industry representatives with American and British officials of the joint Export and Import Agency in Berlin. The move would decrease some of the heavy surplus of this product accumulated here since the end of the O.P.A.

The trade sentiment is still divided locally, but a large number of dealers are still favouring the long side.

NEW YORK SILVER UP ONE CENT

NEW YORK, June 26, (U.P.A.): The price of silver was up one cent on the New York market today and was quoted at 60-3/4 cents per ounce.

Trade sources attributed the rise to continued adequate demand plus the Mexican Government's announcement that it plans to acquire 2,000,000 ounces of silver from the Mexican poduction in July. The volume of buiness transacted today was probably 200,000 to 400,000 ounces.

LONDON SILVER DOWN ONE PENNY.

LONDON, June 26. (U. P. A.): In contast to the increase in the New York silver price, the price of silver on the London market was down one penny today and was quoted at 37 pence per ounce for both spot and forward.

Broken said there was a little buying on the penny decline, but whatever buying developed was sufficient to absorb the very small offerings.

U. S. GOLD STOCKS MOUNT $51,000,000.

WASHINGTON, June 26. (U. P. A.): The Federal Reserve System today reported that the gold stock mounted $51,000,000 during the week ended June 25th as a result of further sales of gold by foreign countries hard pressed for dollars. This was the seventeenth staight weekly increase and brought the total to $21,174,000,000 the highest level since June 28, 1944

GREAT BRITAIN INQUIRING ON WORTH STREET.

NEW YORK, June 26, (U. P. A.): The news that Great Britain is making a large volume of unfinished drill fabrics and persistent demand for print cloth constructions dominated interest during today's session of the Worth Street Cotton Cloth Market. Brokers believed that the drills would be shipped to England for finishing for ultimate distribution at home and for shipment to South African consumers. In addition, Rorth clothes manufacturers bought an estimated amount of 2,500,000 yards of drills for July-August delivery.

CHICAGO GRAINS IRREGULAR.

CHICAGO, June 26, (U. P. A.): Irregular prices featured today's session of the Chicago Commodity Exchange. Prices developed this tendency after corn had climbed to a new record high of $2.03-1/2. The late upset reflected technical selling and hedging as well as the forecast of clear whether in the corn belt and the constant pressure of hedging in wheat against expanding new crop prospects.
